By Norman Borlenguer

MANILA (Special) Police Secretary Gen. Romeo Prudente urged his bureau colleagues in the House of Representatives to approve the P1.425-billion supplemental budget proposed by the Department of Justice.

Prudente said that without the P1.425-billion supplemental budget, the police force will be unable to carry out its mandate to protect the lives and property of the Filipino people. He said that the P1.425-billion supplemental budget will be used to pay the back-salary of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months, to pay the salaries of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months, to pay the salaries of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months, to pay the salaries of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months.

A case of the wolf guarding the hen house

By Ricardo Papa

IT'S A CASE OF THE WOLF GUARDING THE HEN HOUSE.

The Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA) is accused of being involved in the sale of illegal drugs.

SPICA Group, a Philippine-based company, is accused of being involved in the sale of illegal drugs. The company is accused of being involved in the sale of illegal drugs.

Logan will be charged before the Drug Enforcement Agency with violation of Republic

Act No. 9165, the Comprehensive Dangerous Drugs Act of 2002, for possession of dangerous drugs.

If found guilty, he could face a life sentence.

Prudente said that the P1.425-billion supplemental budget will be used to pay the back-salary of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months, to pay the salaries of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months, to pay the salaries of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months, to pay the salaries of police officers who were not paid for the last 12 months.

"We are in the process of establishing any link between Logan and the group (that made the charges), we are just waiting for the information on the evidence presented before us."

but more can be filed," Capistrano said.

In the evidence filed, two agency officials—Superintendent Jerome Mito, chief of Special Enforcement Division, and Captain Torres, chief of the Administration and Human Resources Department—were named as suspects along with three PDEA guards.

Mito was arrested Monday last week at a mall in Fairview, Quezon City. He was charged with 120 grams of drugs.

The PDEA said the other suspects were arrested last week.

They were identified as Insp. Jodelito Babil, and security guard (Gustav) Fernandez and Zame Gonzalez. Babil was arrested in Logon.

Logon was arrested on a warrant pointing to Mito as the mastermind of the case.

He said he was given only P125,000 of a promised P1 million as his share of the loot.

Logon said he was under surveillance for three weeks after being arrested at his residence in the city of Manila.

He was arrested on the strength of a warrant issued by Judge Reynaldo Iba of Manila Regional Trial Court Branch 22.

"We have no way to do this. We can't really perform our job very well if there are people who work against us," said Ibañez. He said that he was arrested last week after being arrested last week.

FREDRICK MACNEIL ARNOVO is planning to provide billions of pesos in loan financing, vital to the country's

"We want the Department of Social Welfare and Development to fund these areas where there are no roads so that we can reach all corners of this nation."

The President lamented that despite the billions in sums of funds available for micro-finance, "there are places where they do not know about this at all, which shows that we haven't really reached all 41,000 villages."

For a long time, she noted, growers have financial institutions like the Land Bank of the Philippines could not lend money to intended beneficiaries of the farm-to-market program because they only have "whitewash" receipts, she added, had to send themselves to the bank through consultants such as the cooperative to fetch loans.

The president brushed off concerns that lifting the prohibition on direct lending of AFRs to small businesses would be ineffectual. "There is no money. Finance Secretary Gary Cramer is now working on guidelines," the President said.

Sperry-Macarty leader Van Vleet says and PSC officials have been earmarked in this year's $16.4 billion supplemental budget "for the infrastructure development" of the 22-sector Illinois Science Complex and Technology Incubation Park at the UIUC.

The lawmakers also recently led a group of scientists that visited Mahanagar, and the alibi town will house the country's science and technology museum.

In his State of the Nation Address in July, President Macapagal-Arroyo vowed "to intensify its strategies for global competitiveness, including the mobilization, upgrading and dissemination of new knowledge and technological productivity."

It is patterned after the Stanford University Illinois Office, also in California.

and the Houshu Science Park in Taiwan. In total, 10 three-story, high technology hubs are located close to a cooperative university.

Lawmaker faces 14 document falsification cases, other raps

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—CITY OFFICIALS have filed 14 cases of falsification of public documents on scores P50 million worth of purchases and a case of violation of audit rules on contracts amounting to P54 and 800 against Pangasinan Rep. Reynaldo Aguirre, the city's former mayor.

The case was filed by Mayor Reynaldo Aguirre in a power of attorney to the city.

Filed at the Department of Justice and the Office of the Solicitor General, the case sought to close the city government of accountability for alleged falsification of public documents.

"We don't want to be charged with falsification for not doing anything. We just want to start the process," said Aguirre.

According to Aguirre, the purchases of the local government of San Fernando in 2004 and 2005 were not properly documented.

Rice fields offer hope for Bontoc tourism

By OTV Espino
Register-Examiner/Manila

BONTOC, MET. PROVINCE—With the deteriorating condition of the world famous Bontoc rice terraces in Ifugao, the province is banking on its distinctly carved "pygmy" tribes to lure visitors.

These pygmy and hunter's distinct culture and are what the staying of the Langley Field in April and the television festival to September visitors to highlight in the main event on in 2010.

But while aiming to become a top tourist destination in North Luzon, the people of Mt. Province must know what they really want their land to become since it's the land where their culture is perpetually attacked.

Unique
 This capital town and seat of government boasts of its uniquely carved pygmy. It is unique in the sense that instead of well-sprayed rice paddies, the fields are painstakingly carved stone walls.

Villagers themselves express awe at how the stone terraces the mountains and were used in the paddies.

This fourth-class municipality has 10 barangays, covering a land area of 17,200 hectares. Bontoc is a beautiful town pygmy pygmy. The village has four terraces: a Bontoc, a Bontoc, a Bontoc, and a Bontoc.

"We, we also have rice terraces. They just need to be discovered," Gen. Mariano Dela Cruz said, adding that 70 percent of the province's land is devoted to rice fields.

Livelihood
 The pygmy center is the primary source of livelihood of the village. They can also be potential source of income that can boost the local economy and tourism in the area.

A growing number of pygmy centers in Bontoc proper have opted to convert portions of their farms into rice terraces and commercial areas.

"Rice terraces"
 That is evident in Bontoc, according to Bontoc Mayor Allan B. Dela Cruz. He said he could harvest that in 30 years or even earlier, the village would be filled with "Bontoc terraces, in word of rice terraces."

"We could see control if they save the lands," he said.

With the growing urbanization of Bontoc, the old customs and traditions that distinguish the town villages from the rest of the region are slowly dying, if not completely lost.

DENR forms fact-finding team to probe rape of Sierra Madre

MANILA CITY—THE DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES has formed a team to investigate the extent and causes of the continuing destruction of the Sierra Madre mountains range in Quezon province.

The team was formed upon the request of the Sierra Madre (SiMa) Stakeholders Forum Management Council (SISMAFMC).

By 1980, forest protection program coordinator of Tagalog Education (TE), a national public interest environmental law office, said the team would be led by Environment Undersecretary Ray Espino.

The SISMAFMC is a nationwide coalition of environmentalists, lawyers, and other groups.

"There's already a civil suit on the ground to conduct investigation," said Espino.

The SISMAFMC is a nationwide coalition of local officials, military officials, environmental organizations, indigenous people and church leaders from Southern Luzon.

In a resolution, the council said that "the DENR's inspection of the 'Caring' (and log) in the region is a serious threat to the environment... these are expected and documented cases of rape in the Sierra Madre."

"There is a pressing need to stop the proliferation of environmental issues that are violations and violations," the council said.

In an exclusive investigation of various "violations" would lead the way to measures and strategies to stop the rape of the Sierra Madre.

The group said it had found several cases pointing to the involvement of environmental officials in illegal logging. It said the committee would take the lead.

"We're not sure we're going to get an answer, but we're going to get an answer," the group said.

with specific documents to make it appear that the logs were just returned and not sold.

A source said the military in the area had documents that would connect the persons behind the illegal logging.

"The SISMAFMC is not just waiting for the forest probe to start to submit the documents," the source said.

The SISMAFMC has expressed alarm over continued logging in the Sierra Madre, saying that this threatened residents of Sierra Madre.

In November last year, after three months of protests, close to 1,000 people died in floods and landslides and millions of pesos worth of property were destroyed in Quezon and Luzon.

The tragedy was traced to massive logging in the Sierra Madre.

Three weeks ago, a multi-sectored team, composed of personnel from the DENR, National Anti-Corruption Crime Task Force, the military and the PRC, conducted the investigation and confirmed a total of 331 rights cases (20,357 board feet) of illegal logs, timber and some lumber, with an estimated market value of P1.5 million.

The council also reported that Mayor Antonio Bantolano in his resignation is a private of San Roque Sawmill Corp., a big time logger based in Bontoc, was his name as a key name in the transportation of timber for distribution to Manila and other provinces.

It is expected that the case of the DENR as a company should be able to be an answer for the "illegal logging" of timber resources from Sierra Madre, Cebu, and other areas.

Militant group raises alarm over slays of women leftists

WOMEN are concerned of the involvement of protesters in the case of the World Bank office in Origena against World Bank policies in their fight against the Philippines.

Women's Party (WP) Rep. Jose Biaz in the Origena constituency in New South Wales highlighted the political killings of women in the Philippines.

The report indicated the government's poor compliance in reporting, protecting and fulfilling the human rights of women, Biaz said.

Records of human rights group Amnesty showed that from 2001 to 2006, 720 political activists were killed. Twenty-eight of those slain were women, said Biaz, a member of the Origena constituency. Biaz said the Origena constituency is a member of the Origena constituency.

Valenzuela City hit by dengue epidemic

Health execs report 78% hike in cases

By CJ Yap

DENVER CASES BY VALENZUELA CITY have already reached epidemic proportions this year despite an intensive sanitation campaign to contain the mosquito-breeding, city officials said yesterday.

From Jan. 1 to Aug. 23, the number of dengue cases in the city has gone up by 78 percent compared to the same period last year, in a report of the city's epidemiology and surveillance unit.

Valenzuela epidemiologist Manuel Mapa said it was not just an increase in cases, they have not yet reached 700 dengue cases, which is the threshold level.

Mapa said in a report that as of Sept. 23 this year, they have not yet reached 700 dengue cases, which is the threshold level.

In contrast, only 311 cases were reported during the same period in 2007, and 463 cases for the entire year, city epidemiology officer Maribel Mapa added.

"We already were past the dengue epidemic threshold level," Mapa Maribel Mapa said.

Based on comparisons done by the city health department, dengue incidence in Valenzuela City has already surpassed the epidemic threshold, a figure based on increases in dengue cases over a period of five years, Mapa said.

Dengue hot spots

In the last week, 37 new cases were recorded, Mapa said in his report. More than half of the cases came from District 2, particularly the barangays San Isidro, San Antonio and San Juan.

The same report revealed that the age of those who came down with the disease ranged from 4 months to 95 years old.

The most affected age group, however, was those 15 to 44 years old, which accounted for half of the cases. More than half, or 53 percent, were males.

The officials, meanwhile, expressed alarm over the apparent failure of their efforts to prevent a dengue epidemic. "We have done everything to keep dengue cases from becoming a problem," Mapa said.

"We should have, considered logging operations, and even formed teams to remove old tires and containers that could be breeding grounds for mosquitoes," he added.

The mayor said the residents could be blamed themselves for their carelessness. "Yellow flagging"—filling up long-term unattended drains and clearing possible mosquito breeding grounds.

City leaders urged city residents to "be vigilant and employ simple measures" to ward off mosquitoes, like making their children wear long pants at school.

BATH TIME!

Christmas may still be some months away but holiday decorations are already on display along Balagueran Road in Quezon City, in the delight of a boy who decides to give one of the miniature Santa a bath.

DENR: Uncollected Metro garbage wind up in rivers, esteros

By Juliet Lading-Jaranda

MORE THAN 1,000 TONS OF GARBAGE generated by residents in Metro Manila end up being thrown into rivers, esteros or are left to rot on the streets because these are not collected by waste collectors.

This pile of bad news surfaced yesterday in the Senate hearing of the DENR

Senate Committee on Environment and Natural Resources.

Sen. Franklin Drilon said garbage collection efficiency in the metropolis was only 80 percent. This means, he added, that 1,000 tons of the 8,500,000 tons of garbage produced daily by Metro Manila were not collected.

The statement was confirmed by DENR senior secretary Eugenio Reyes.

When asked where the uncollected garbage went, Reyes said, "The households throw them into rivers, esteros and on the streets."

"We requested DENR to start the cleanup and asked Reyes to come up with a comprehensive program to address the garbage problem in Metro Manila."

Not our problem

The DENR chief, however, said the waste collection was the responsibility of local governments.

Sen. Florencio B. Quinsion, chair of the Senate Environment Committee, said the garbage problem was compounded by corruption in the use of funds for garbage disposal.

"A lot of money is made under the table. The funds are not being used for waste disposal," Quinsion added.

Sen. Amado M. Nolasco said the DENR is not collecting a lot of garbage collection contracts in the last year but the department has not complied with his request.

THE NEWLY APPOINTED CHIEF OF the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) Regional Office in Manila has vowed to focus on media killings.

"We will give a hundred percent in our efforts to media and political killings," Regional Director Fernando Hernandez, former chief of the NBI Special Task Force (STF), said upon his appointment.

Hernandez said he would ensure that under his supervision, the Bureau's regional offices would become more dynamic and proactive.

NBI Regional Capital Region (CR) chief Paul Landa, who will also be directed by Hernandez, expressed support for the NBI chief's appointment.

"Hernandez' appointment will be very beneficial to the regional command because he is young, energetic and motivated," Landa said.

Age on advantage

He added, "Hernandez will have time to visit the regional offices, unlike the past where directors who were old when they were appointed to the post."

As for the decision, Hernandez said he was surprised of kidnapping, or theft, murder and indirect delivery in the past. Landa said all the charges have since been dropped.

Hernandez has been charged of all these charges. He was all sympathetic to these accusations when he was doing his duties as "his officers," the NBI CR chief said.

World skeptical of Bin Laden 'death'

PARIS—A FRENCH INTELLIGENCE MEMO SUGGESTING al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden might have died of typhoid has been met with skepticism around the world, including the highest levels of the French government.

France, the United States, Pakistan and Saudi Arabia all said they had no evidence to support the assertion in the memo, which was published Tuesday by the French outlet newspaper Libération.

"To my knowledge, Osama bin

Laden is not dead. It is quite certain," French Foreign Minister

Philippe Doust-Blazy said

French television on Sunday.

French President Jacques

Chirac on Tuesday confirmed the memo was genuine, stating he was "surprised" it had been made public and ordering an investigation into its leak.

But he assured that the information is given was "to no one outside."

However, previous reports that bin Laden was killed with a

Banks remain awash with cash

By Michelle V. Arceo

EXCESS LIQUIDITY IN THE BANKING SYSTEM FORCED A DROP in the rates of the six-month and one-year treasury bills at yesterday's auction, but the yield of the benchmark 93-day paper hardly moved as investors flocked to the longer-term debt instruments.

The 93-day treasury bill saw interest slip by a basis point to 5.447 percent on bids totaling P3.4 billion.

"The amount of tenders indicated an over-subscription as the government's debt offering stood at only P2 billion for each stock. The over-subscription for the three-month government securities, however, still paled compared with the appetite exhibited by investors for the 181 and 361-day bills.

The 361-day securities fetched 5.811 percent, declining by 0.2 basis points from the last auction two weeks ago. Tenders for the six-month bills stood at P5.77 billion, reflecting an over-subscription of more than three times.

The rate for the 361-day bills hit 6.776 percent or 11.2 basis points lower than two weeks ago. Bids for the one-year debt totaled

More RP companies getting involved in CSR

THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY PLAYS A crucial role in the fight against poverty worldwide, especially through their involvement in various social issues, according to the World Bank.

Speaking during the 5th Asian Forum on Corporate Social Responsibility, World Bank Group president Paul H. Wolfowitz said the contribution of the business sector to the global anti-poverty drive already surpasses that of governments significantly.

"Today, for every dollar in World Bank development assistance, there is another four dollars in private sector flows to developing countries," he said in a video-recorded address during the event.

"That means more than $200 billion per year in debt and equity go to developing countries."

Wolfowitz added that 90 percent of all jobs worldwide are generated through private sector initiatives.

"That makes private sector jobs the most promising path out of poverty," he added.

In a signpost from before, even after Sumner 8, del Santos noted the deluge of investments about 1.2B on the list of corporate cases, even as these are increasingly affected by "climate change."

"Business has a wider responsibility to society," he said. "It's not just about making money."

Del Santos, who also leads the Philippine Business group, said that more and more companies were coming to realize that financial success was closely tied to how much they care for the communities in which they operate and the larger society.
